Subject: Xerces Society and California Department of Fish and Wildlife Bee Surveys

To: To Whom it may concern:

The Xerces Society, the California Department of Fish and Wildlife, and their volunteers are conducting bee surveys in 2023 and 2024. Surveys include netting and temporarily trapping bees to identify the species by taking photographs of the individuals, which are then released in the same location at which they are trapped. Their work will help the Forest Service, as well as the California Department of Fish and Wildlife, manage the bee species.

Should you have any questions, please contact Patti Krueger, Regional Threatened and Endangered Species Coordinator, at (707) 562-8954 or patricia.krueger@usda.gov.
